ACADEMIC REGALIA

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature at all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

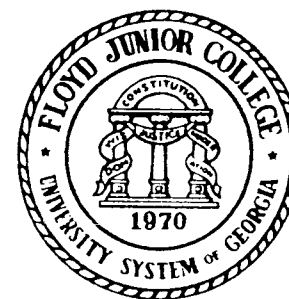

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church—a large number of the scholars were preparing for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergyman—the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves, the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts - white; Science - gold-yellow; Nursing - apricot; Physical Education - green; Business Administration - drab; Librarianship - lemon; Education - blue.

Our Commencement Speaker —

Bert Lance

Thomas Bertram (Bert) Lance's business experience includes 28 years in banking. He currently serves as Chairman of the Board of the Calhoun First National Bank and handles private business interests and frequent speaking engagements that require considerable travel in the U.S. and abroad.

He grew up in Young Harris, Georgia where his father, Dr. Thomas Jackson Lance, was president of Young Harris College. He was graduated from high school in Calhoun, Georgia and received his college education at Emory University and the University of Georgia.

He served as Director of the State Highway Department of Georgia and then as Commissioner of the Department of Transportation from 1970-1973. He was a candidate for Governor of Georgia in 1974. In 1975 he became President of the National Bank of Georgia which by the end of 1976 ranked as Georgia's fifth largest. During the 1976 presidential campaign of Jimmy Carter, Lance worked to develop support in the business community for Carter. In January, 1977 he was appointed Director of the U.S. Office of Management and Budget by President Carter and served in Washington until September, 1977.

He and his wife, the former LaBelle David, reside in Calhoun and are members of the First Methodist Church. The Lances have four sons, Thomas B. Lance, Jr., David Jackson, Stuart Austin, and Claude Beverly Lance.

The Floyd Junior College Laureate Society was established Spring Quarter, 1982 to recognize currently enrolled students who have taken 42 or more quarter credit hours, and have earned a 3.6 or better grade point average at Floyd Junior College.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have achieved or lost Honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd Junior College to award a given degree or a given Honors status.

For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the Office of the Registrar, Floyd Junior College.

Our Commencement Speaker --

U.S. Representative George (Buddy) Darden

Seventh District Congressman George (Buddy) Darden was elected to his post in the U.S. House of Representatives on November 8, 1983. Prior to his election, Darden was serving in his second term as a state representative from Cobb County.

Congressman Darden is a native Georgian and a 1967 graduate of the University of Georgia School of Law. He is a life-long Democrat who has served as an aide to the late U.S. Senator Richard B. Russell, as Cobb County District Attorney, and as secretary of the Cobb County Bar Association.

He has been very active in community affairs in Cobb County, including service as past president of the Marietta Kiwanis Club. He is on the board of trustees and a Sunday school teacher at the First United Methodist Church of Marietta. Darden is a 4-H club counselor, co-president of the Hickory Hills PTA and a Cobb County Emergency Aid Board Member. He was nominated as Outstanding Young Man in Cobb County in 1970 and 1976. He has also participated in activities and fund-raising efforts for the Heart Association, Cancer Society, YWCA, and Hospice.

Darden is married to the former Lillian Budd. They have two children, Christy, 11, and Georgia, 9.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church—a large number of the scholars were preparing for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergymen—the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's, four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts - white; Science - gold/yellow; Nursing - apricot; Physical Education - green; Business Administration - drab; Librarianship - lemon; Education - blue.

The Floyd Junior College Laureate Society was established Spring Quarter, 1982 to recognize currently enrolled students who have taken 42 or more quarter credit hours, and have earned a 3.6 or better grade point average at Floyd Junior College.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have achieved or lost Honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd Junior College to award a given degree or a given Honors status.

For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the Office of the Registrar, Floyd Junior College.

Our Commencement Speaker —

NOAH LANGDALE, JR.

President Noah Langdale, a native of Valdosta, Ga., is a 1937 graduate of Valdosta High School, where he was captain of the football team and President of the senior class. He holds the A.B. degree from the University of Alabama; and, as a Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa student, he was selected as the outstanding student of the class of 1941. He received the L.L.B. degree from Harvard Law School, the M.B.A. degree from Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration, and was awarded the L.L.D. degree from the University of Alabama.

President Langdale became President of Georgia State University in Atlanta in 1957, and is now one of the Nation's senior leaders in time of service to a major educational institution. During his tenure at Georgia State, the institution has progressed to its present status of a balanced urban university offering 44 degree programs to approximately 34,000 students attending the university for credit courses on an annual basis. More than 98,000 others participate annually in institutes, short courses, and seminars.

During World War II, President Langdale served as a Naval Officer in the Southwest Pacific. He is married to Alice Cabaniss Langdale and they have one son, Michael.

President Langdale is a highly sought speaker and lecturer, with frequent appearances both throughout the nation and abroad, and as Institute Lecturer at the Universities of North Carolina, Colorado, Houston, Syracuse, Santa Clara, and as Lecturer for the U.S. Armed Forces in Europe.

A past member of the Board of Directors of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, President Langdale serves on the Urban Affairs Committee of that organization. He is President of the Georgia Association of Colleges, is a member of the Georgia and American Bar Associations, and the Atlanta Rotary Club. He is the recipient of the Outstanding Civilian Service Medal, awarded by the Secretary of the Army, for services to national defense.

JOE FRANK HARRIS

Joe Frank Harris took office on January 11, 1983, as the 78th Governor of the State of Georgia. A lifelong Democrat, Harris served 18 years as a member of the House of Representatives before seeking the Governorship in 1982. For the last eight of those years, he was Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, a position which provided him with the intimate knowledge of the State's budget process. He is the acknowledged expert on State revenues and expenditures.

A businessman, Harris has injected a businesslike management style and organization into State government. He has strictly adhered to his campaign pledge of no new state taxes, a pledge which has not stood in the way of his commitment to improve funding for public education. In fact, Harris recommended — and the General Assembly has approved — over $1 billion in improvements for education spending in the first three budgets of his Administration. Over 60 percent of all new funds available for appropriation have gone toward education since Harris took office.

Last year Harris sponsored the Quality Basic Education Act based on the findings and recommendations of the Governor's Education Review Commission, a 41 member panel he appointed to assess Georgia's educational system and to recommend a program and funding to bring about dramatic improvements. The Q.B.E. bill was passed without a single dissenting vote in either house, true testimony to the Governor's recognized leadership and commitment to excellence in education.

Education reform will remain Harris' highest priority while in office, but he couples his call for educational improvement with efforts to stimulate and enhance economic development in Georgia. The two go hand-in-hand, he contends.

Born on February 16, 1936, in Bartow County, Harris is the second of three children of Franklin Grover Harris of Gilmer County and Frances Morrow Harris of Newton County. He received his primary and secondary education in the Cartersville Public Schools and completed a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration at the University of Georgia in 1958. He is married to the former Elizabeth Carlock and they have one son, Joe, who attends the University of Georgia.

E.M. (Buddy) Childers

E.M. (Buddy) Childers has been a member of the Georgia House of Representatives since 1975. He is Chairman of the Health and Ecology Committee and member of the Appropriations Committee and the University System of Georgia Committee, on which he serves as Chairman of the Junior Colleges, Private Colleges and Proprietary Schools Regents Liaison.

He has been named Legislator of the Year by both the Public Health Association and the Mental Health Association of Georgia. Northwest Regional Hospital and the Georgia Medical Association have each recognized him for outstanding work on health and mental health issues.

Mr. Childers is a lifelong resident of Floyd County, having been educated at Johnson and Riverside Elementary Schools and Model High School, graduating in 1956.

He is employed with Southern Bell Telephone Company as a repairman. He is married to the former Martha Bynum and has two children.

History of Floyd Junior College

In 1968 the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authorized the establishment of Floyd Junior College in Floyd County. Under the board's policy the local community would provide a campus site and funds for the construction of facilities required for the college's opening.

Led by the Junior College Committee headed by Rome attorney J.D. Maddox, Floyd County citizens overwhelmingly accepted the responsibility by approving, on November 5, 1968, by more than a three to one margin, a bond issue to provide funds for the construction of the college.

Construction of facilities began in early 1970 and was completed by the latter part of the year. Fall quarter classes began that year in temporary headquarters in downtown Rome. By the end of fall quarter all college operations were moved on campus.

The facilities consisted of four buildings: Academic, Administration, Physical Education and Physical Plant.

At the start of its second year in 1971, Floyd Junior College had formed its official Student Government Association. Officers were elected according to the rules in the constitution, adopted by the students in spring 1971. Official school colors of red, blue, and white and the nickname, "Chargers," were chosen by the student body in 1970-71.

Today, Floyd Junior College offers four basic areas of study:

- Transfer programs for students planning to continue their education at other institutions;
- Career programs designed to give students a basic core of general education and prepare them for employment immediately upon successful completion of the program;
- A developmental studies program providing remedial courses in English, mathematics, and reading; and
- A public service program offering non-credit courses of special interest to the community.

Facilities have expanded from the four original buildings and now include a spacious library and physical education complex complete with gymnasium.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church — a large number of scholars were preparing for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergymen — the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from the churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts — white; Science — gold/yellow; Nursing — apricot; Physical Education — green; Business Administration — drab; Librarianship — lemon; Education — blue.

The Floyd Junior College Laureate Society was established Spring Quarter, 1982 to recognize currently enrolled students who have taken 42 or more quarter credit hours, and have earned a 3.6 or better grade point average at Floyd Junior College.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have achieved or lost Honor status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd Junior College to award a given degree or a given Honors status.

For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the Office of the Registrar, Floyd Junior College.

James Derward Powell

In 1987, when Coosa Valley Tech became Coosa Valley Technical Institute, J. Derward Powell was chosen as its first President. This was an honor richly deserved for he has devoted more than 20 years of his educational career in the service of vocational education in this area.

Mr. Powell was born in Sylvania, Georgia. He was educated in the Screven County public schools, and he received his undergraduate degree from Berry College and his Master's degree from the University of Georgia. He came to Coosa Valley Tech in 1967 as an instructor of Drafting and Design Technology. Later, he was chosen as the Director of Coosa Valley Tech.

Besides his duties at Coosa Valley Technical Institute, Mr. Powell is a member of the American Vocational Association, the Georgia Vocational Association, and was appointed by Governor George Busbee as a member of the Governor's Committee on Post Secondary Education. In 1984, he was appointed as a member of the Georgia Council on Vocational Education by Governor Joe Frank Harris.

Mr. Powell is a member of the First Baptist Church of Rome where he is the past Chairman of the Board of Deacons, a member of the Chancel Choir, a Sunday school teacher and a member of the Floyd County Baptist Association Administration Committee. Mr. Powell is married to the former Justene Spruell and has three children, Jim, Allison, and April. He is the proud grandfather of five grandchildren.

History of Floyd College

In 1968 the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authorized the establishment of Floyd Junior College in Floyd County. Under the board's policy the local community would provide a campus site and funds for the construction of facilities required for the college's opening.

Led by the Junior College Committee headed by Rome attorney J.D. Madrox, Floyd County citizens overwhelmingly accepted the responsibility by approving on November 5, 1968, by more than a three to one margin, a bond issue to provide funds for the construction of the college.

In 1971, Floyd Junior College formed its official Student Government Association. Officers were elected according to the rules in the constitution, adopted by the students in spring 1971. Official school colors of red, blue, and white and the nickname, "Chargers," were chosen by the student body in 1970-71.

In 1987 the Board of Regents gave permission for Floyd Junior College to expand its programs and to change its name to Floyd College.

Since its inception, Floyd College has led the state in several innovative and outstanding programs. Among them are programs for the hearing impaired, an honors program for academic students and a highly respected nursing program. Today, Floyd College offers Associate Degrees in Arts and Sciences, Applied Science and Nursing as well as a wide variety of public service programs.

The Floyd Campus has been expanded from the original four buildings to now include a spacious library and physical education complex complete with a gymnasium.

Dr. Rebecca Hughes Cook

Dr. Rebecca Hughes Cook, an internist at Harbin Clinic and graduate of Floyd College will give the commencement address. Dr. Cook is the first Floyd College alumna and first woman to serve as commencement speaker.

A native of Anniston, Ala., Dr. Cook moved to Rome in 1966 and attended Floyd County schools, graduating from Model High School in 1971. In 1973 she was an honor graduate and member of the first class to receive the Associate of Science in Nursing degree from Floyd College.

She went on to earn a bachelor's degree in zoology from the University of Georgia in 1975 and an M.D. degree from the Medical College of Georgia in 1979. After completing a residency in internal medicine at Georgia Baptist Hospital, she returned to Rome to the Family Practice Program at Floyd Medical Center. In 1982 she joined Harbin Clinic. Dr. Cook was the recipient of the Floyd College Distinguished Alumni Award in 1984. She is married to Dr. David Cook, professor of Biology and chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at Floyd College.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church — a large number of scholars were prepared for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergymen — the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from the churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts—white; Science—gold/yellow; Nursing—apricot; Physical Education—green; Business Administration—drab; Librarianship—lemon; Education—blue.

The Floyd College Laureate Society was established Spring Quarter, 1982 to recognize currently enrolled students who have taken 42 or more quarter credit hours, and have earned a 3.6 or better grade point average at Floyd College.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have achieved or lost Honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd College to award a given degree or a given Honors status.

For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the Office of the Registrar, Floyd College.

Ms. Laura Paynter

Laura Thomas Paynter is a legally disabled, single mother of three children. She is a member of PEACH, an organization which provides assistance for single parents.

Ms. Paynter served as the 1990-1991 president of the Floyd College Student Government Association. She is an honor graduate, a member of the Laureate Society, and a recipient of the 1991 Floyd College Leadership Award. She has devoted extensive hours to volunteer projects and community affairs.

Ms. Paynter will earn her Associate Degree in Applied Science in Marketing and Management from Floyd College. She plans to attend Berry College this fall in pursuit of a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communications, with a minor in political science. Her long term goal is to gain a law degree and to become active in governmental affairs.

History of Floyd College

In 1968 the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authorized the establishment of Floyd Junior College in Floyd County. Under the board's policy the local community would provide a campus site and funds for the construction of facilities required for the college's opening.

Led by the Junior College committee headed by Rome attorney J.D. Maddox, Floyd County citizens overwhelmingly accepted the responsibility by approving on November 5, 1968, by more than a three to one margin, a bond issue to provide funds for the construction of the college.

In 1971, Floyd Junior College formed its official Student Government Association. Officers were elected according to the rules of the constitution, adopted by the students in spring 1971. Official school colors of red, blue, and white and the nickname, "Chargers," were chosen by the student body in 1970-71.

In 1987 the Board of Regents gave permission for Floyd Junior College to expand its programs and to change its name to Floyd College.

Since its inception, Floyd College has led the state in several innovative and outstanding programs. Among them are programs for the hearing impaired, an honors program for academic students and a highly respected nursing program. Today, Floyd College offers Associate Degrees in Arts and Sciences, Applied Science and Nursing as well as a wide variety of public service programs.

The Floyd Campus has been expanded from the original four buildings to now include a spacious library, physical education complex complete with a gymnasium, and a new administration annex completed spring 1991

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church—a large number of scholars were prepared for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergymen—the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from the churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts—white; Science—gold/yellow; Nursing—apricot; Physical Education—green; Business Administration—drab; Librarianship—lemon; Education—blue.

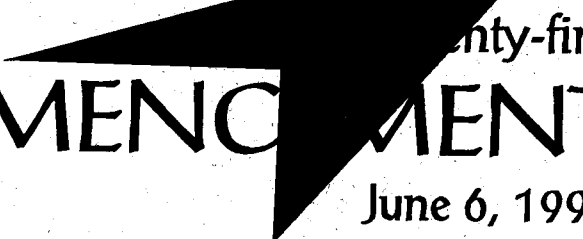

The Floyd College Laureate Society was established Spring Quarter, 1982 to recognize currently enrolled students who have taken 42 or more quarter credit hours, and have earned a 3.6 or better grade point average at Floyd College.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have achieved or lost honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd College to award a given degree or a given Honors status.

For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the Office of the Registrar, Floyd College.

William H. Boling, Jr.

William H. Boling, Jr. ("Bill") is an attorney and partner in the law firm of Shaw, Maddox, Graham, Monk & Boling, whose offices are located in Rome, Georgia. He has practiced law in Rome since 1981 and specializes in trial work, primarily in the area of insurance defense.

Bill is the son of Bill and Johnnie Boling of Silver Creek, Georgia. He graduated from Pepperell High School in 1972 and studied for two years at Floyd College before earning a Bachelor of Arts Degree at Georgia State University in 1977. He graduated in 1980 from the University of Georgia School of Law with a Juris Doctor's Degree and was admitted that year to the Georgia State Bar.

Bill is a member of the American Bar Association, the Georgia State Bar and the Rome Bar Association. He is currently President of the Rome Bar Association and has served as a member of the Executive Council of the Younger Lawyers Section of the Georgia State Bar.

An active member of several community organizations, he has served as President of the Board of Directors of the Rome-Floyd County YMCA, 1990 and 1992, and is currently President of the Board of the Greater Rome Chamber of Commerce. He is also a member of the Rotary Club of Rome, Georgia.

Bill and his family reside at 9 Richland Court in Rome and are members of the First United Methodist Church. Bill is married to the former Gaelle Illien. They have three children, Alexis, John Michael, and Megan.

Floyd College Alumni Association

The Floyd College Foundation has recently established an Alumni Association made up of all past graduates of the college. The Floyd College Alumni Association works to increase alumni involvement in campus activities, and to raise funds for the Foundation to benefit the college. Members of the Alumni Association also serve as Ambassadors for Floyd College in the community.

George W. (Buddy) Darden, Jr.

Congressman George W. (Buddy) Darden, Jr. was first chosen to represent Georgia's 7th District in a November 1983 special election to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman Larry McDonald. The 7th District includes Floyd and other northwest Georgia counties. Darden won re-election in 1984, 1986, 1988, 1990, and 1992.

Congressman Darden earned a law degree from the University of Georgia in 1967. He served as a Cobb County District Attorney from 1973-1977. He represented west Cobb County in the Georgia House of Representatives from 1981 until his election to Congress.

Darden is married to the former Lillian Budd of Atlanta. They have two children: Christy, born in 1971, and George, born in 1974.

Dr. Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award

Richard O. Hays

Richard O. Hays of Cedartown has been elected by his peers to receive the 1994 Wesley M. Walraven Faculty Award. Dr. Hays has taught at Floyd College since it opened in 1970 and will be retiring this month.

A native of Atlanta, Dr. Hays received a bachelor of science degree from Georgia State University, a master of science degree from the University of North Carolina and a PH.D. degree from Auburn University, all in physics. At Floyd College, Dr. Hays has chaired the Floyd College/Coosa Valley Technical Institute Joint Oversight Committee for a number of years.

President's Meritorious Award

James E. Brown

James E. Brown of Dalton has been selected to receive the 1994 President's Award for his service to Floyd College as a member of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. A native of Dalton, Georgia, Mr. Brown founded Brown Printing Company in 1958. In 1970, Brown Printing and four other related area companies completed a merger agreement with National Service Industries, Inc., becoming the Marketing Services Division of NSI and specializing in marketing services for the carpet industry. Mr. Brown now is Chairman and CEO of this division which is presently comprised of twelve companies with locations in Dalton, Atlanta and Chatsworth, Georgia.

In addition to his tenure on the Board of Regents, Mr. Brown is heavily involved in community service and is currently Chairman of the Advisory Board of Directors of Wachovia Bank of Georgia, Northwest Georgia Division. He is a member of the First United Methodist Church of Dalton where he serves on the administrative board.

Mr. Brown is married to the former Mary Helen Morris of Oneida, Tennessee.

Meritorious Staff Award

Vivian Ray Benton

Vivian Ray Benton came to Floyd College as Secretary to the Dean when the college was in its infancy in April of 1970. She hails from Oglethorpe County, Georgia, graduating from Washington-Wilkes High School, and holds a diploma from Greenleaf Business College. Ms. Benton worked as a clerk for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and attended Georgia State University for two years before coming to Rome.

In 1974 she was promoted to Staff Assistant in the Dean's Office, and in 1988, became Assistant to the Dean. Ms. Benton has been the common thread, providing scheduling and organization of class offerings in the academic division of Floyd College for 25 years. Her contributions to and knowledge of the office have made her an invaluable asset to Floyd College.

It is with great admiration and respect that Floyd College presents to Vivian Benton its first Meritorious Staff Award which will hereafter be known as the Vivian R. Benton Staff Award.

History of Floyd College

Founded in 1970 as Floyd Junior College, Floyd College is a two-year unit of the University System of Georgia. It serves students who commute from throughout a large portion of northwest Georgia and northeast Alabama.

In 1968 the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authorized the establishment of Floyd Junior College in Floyd County. Under the Board's policy the local community would provide a campus site and funds for the construction of the initial facilities. Led by the Junior College Committee headed by Rome attorney J.D. Maddox, Floyd County citizens responded enthusiastically by approving a $3.2 million bond issue by a margin of nearly three to one. Construction began in early 1970. The College's first classes were offered during the fall quarter of 1970 in temporary facilities, but by the end of 1970 all operations were moved on campus.

Dr. David B. McCorkle became the first president of Floyd Junior College on January 1, 1970, and served in that position until June 30, 1991. In recognition of his long and distinguished service to Floyd College and the community, the Board of Regents named him President Emeritus of Floyd College effective January 1, 1991. Following Dr. McCorkle's retirement, Dr. Richard Trimble was appointed Acting President of Floyd College and served until the November 1992 selection of Dr. H. Lynn Cundiff as the College's second president.

Now enrolling approximately three thousand students in academic programs, Floyd College also offers a large and varied community-education program and operates extension centers in Cartersville and Acworth. The College pioneered in developing cooperative programs with Coosa Valley Technical Institute as early as 1972 and now also offers joint programs with North Metro Technical Institute in Acworth.

In 1994 Floyd College continued its expansion and outreach by acquiring the East Rome Junior High School facility in downtown Rome. The college began offering classes in the building beginning Winter, 1995. A portion of the facility is used to house a television studio through which academic classes are broadcast over a local cable channel.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have received or lost Honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd College to award a given degree or a given Honors status. For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the office of the Registrar, Floyd College.

Our Commencement Speaker

Dr. Fred Gainous

Dr. Fred Gainous was appointed Chancellor of the Alabama College System on March 12, 1988. He has more than 15 years of comprehensive community college experience in Florida and Kansas.

At the Florida State Department of Education, he served as Coordinator of Occupational Programs and as Educational Information Center Director. He also served as Assistant Commissioner for Community Colleges and Vocational Education with the Kansas Department of Education. Prior to accepting the position of Chancellor, he was Associate Vice President of St. Petersburg Junior College in Florida.

Dr. Gainous holds a doctorate of education degree and an educational specialist degree in curriculum and instruction from the University of Florida. He also received a master's degree from the University of Florida in 1972 and a bachelor's degree from Florida A & M University in 1967 in agricultural education.

President's Meritorious Award

Edgar L. Rhodes

Edgar L. Rhodes was born in Cumming, Georgia and moved to Alpharetta at an early age. He was reared on a dairy farm and became a master 4-Her. Mr. Rhodes graduated from the University of Georgia with a degree in vocational education and began his career as a teacher at Milton High School. There, he met and married Daisy Campbell.

Before WWII, Mr. Rhodes served as a County Extension Agent in Spalding County, Carrollton, and Bremen. Following the war, he bought City Lumber Company of Bremen and began raising Angus and Gelbvieh cows, and a herd of Belgium horses.

Mr. Rhodes was named to the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia in 1984. He has served as Chairman of the Board, and currently represents the board on the Metropolitan Atlanta Olympic Games Authority.

As a board member, Regent Rhodes has been a true friend to Floyd College, supporting many special initiatives and always being available for consultation. It is with sincere appreciation that the President's Meritorious Award is presented to Regent Edgar L. Rhodes.

Dr. Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award

Belen Dizon Nora

Belen Dizon Nora, Chairman of the Division of Health Sciences, came to Floyd College in 1971. A native of the Philippines, Ms. Nora was awarded a B.S.N. degree from the University of the Philippines, and a M.S. degree in nursing education from the University of Chicago. She has since done postgraduate work in maternity nursing at that same institution.

Before coming to Floyd College, Ms. Nora served as Assistant Director of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Worcester, Massachusetts. At Floyd College, Ms. Nora has led the nursing program to prominence, graduating more than 1,100 students of exemplarily quality, most of whom have remained in Northwest Georgia to serve our community.

For her contributions to Floyd College, for her leadership and standards of excellence, Floyd College, upon recommendation of the faculty, awards the Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award to Belen Nora.

Dr. James Muyskens, Senior Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, University System of Georgia, received a Masters of Divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1967 and a Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1971.

He joined the faculty of Hunter College of the City University of New York in the fall of 1971. While at Hunter he moved in the faculty ranks from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor to Full Professor. He is the author of several books and numerous articles in ethics and the philosophy of religion.

Vice Chancellor Muyskens was the Chair of the Department of Philosophy at Hunter from 1974 through 1980. After a year as a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellow at the Hastings Center, he returned to Hunter as Associate Provost. In the fall of 1987 he was named Acting Provost and Vice President of the College.

In 1988, he became Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Kansas—a college of 50 departments, programs and centers with a student body of 15,000 and a full-time faculty of 620. As a professor in the Department of Philosophy he also taught courses in ethics and the philosophy of religion.

On September 1, 1995, Dr. Muyskens assumed the position of Senior Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. He is responsible for meeting the academic needs of 204,000 students and for working with more than 8,000 University System faculty members.

Mr. W. Thomas Melton

After graduating from the University of Georgia and serving in the U.S. Army, W. Thomas Melton worked for two years as an internal auditor for the Board of Regents in Atlanta. In 1970 he was chosen to become the first Business Officer of newly opened Floyd College.

Mr. Melton has devoted his professional life to Floyd College. He has successfully managed the finances of the college through its growth from 500-3,000 students and through numerous building and expansion projects.

In 1989 Mr. Melton was named Vice President for Business and Finance. In addition to his office duties, Mr. Melton has served on numerous committees and has spearheaded many projects to advance the college. He has worked closely with the Floyd College Foundation, helping to secure money for scholarships and coordinating the renovation of Centre Stage at Heritage Hall for community use.

Without his determination and aggressive vision, much of what Floyd College is today would never have come to be.

Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award

Dr. C. David Cook

C. David Cook is a native of Gaylesville, Alabama. He is a graduate of Jacksonville State University and The University of Georgia, where he received the Doctor of Philosophy degree in biology.

Dr. Cook has served Floyd College for more than 26 years as an instructor, as an administrator, and in leadership roles on committees and student events. Dr. Cook was hired in September 1970 as Chair of the Division of Natural Sciences. During his last year as Chair, Dave assumed the duties of night administrator.

Dr. Cook is recognized by his peers and by students as an individual who loves learning. He has accumulated a truly liberal education. Numerous students over the years have testified to Dr. Cook's influence upon their development of interests in learning.

For his contributions to Floyd College, for his leadership and standards of excellence, Floyd College, upon recommendation of the faculty, awards the Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award to C. David Cook.

On many particular projects have been taken care of. She willingly serves on committees and projects, and anything else which the college calls upon her to do. Her job over the years and she has handled them all with remarkable efficiency.

Outstanding Administrator

Ms. Sarah H. Burkhalter

Ms. Sarah Burkhalter came to the College in 1972 as a career that not only led to her becoming the Assistant Director of Continuing and Adult Education but becoming one of the most effective community leaders in the state. Sarah is dedicated to the long hours to accomplish her goal of the best two-year continuing education. She single-handedly developed the Secretaries Day Seminar, which is a program of the College. She has served on numerous committees and where her activities run from women's leadership to the United States in the Georgia Adult Education Association. Ms. Burkhalter is a privilege of working with her. She is a credit to the College.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement and candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for status. ## Academic Regalia

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish during the earliest days of these schools. Since there were early universities and the Church—a large number of scholars and many of the faculty were clergymen—the garb adopted by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set it apart.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar but the sleeves are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway down the sleeves). Full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with the gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions. The traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood is five. The study can be determined from the facing on the hood. Arts—white; Science—gold/yellow; Nursing—apricot; Philosophy—black; Librarianship—lemon; Education—blue.

The mace, a great and splendid staff, is actually a ceremonial weapon. Universities would not defend themselves with the sword, but they could defend, using the mace. It has come to stand as a symbol for two critical matters. First, it is used to seek the truth and to teach it. It also stands for the authority of the institution, best described by two traditional Latin terms: magisterium and magisterlunum, is included control of equipment, building and grounds. Under the members and visitors—ensuring order and liberty. Under the defense of the liberty to do research, to study, to publish, to make a statement that the academy must protect and foster those who are engaged in the pursuit of knowledge.

The Floyd College mace was designed by Mr. David Cook, Professor of Biology. The faculty selected the mace as a symbol of Institutional Effectiveness, to have the honor of carrying it.

The academic banners being borne by the divisions of the college are designed to reflect the disciplines of each division.

Floyd College Alumni Association

The Floyd College Foundation has recently established a program to assist past graduates of the college. The Floyd College Alumni Association is a voluntary involvement in campus activities, and to raise funds for the college. Members of the Alumni Association also serve as Ambassadors to the community.

Academic Regalia

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church—a large number of scholars were prepared for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergymen—the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from the churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts—white; Science—gold/yellow; Nursing—apricot; Physical Education—green; Business Administration—Librarianship—lemon; Education—blue.

The mace, a great and splendid staff, is actually a club; it is a symbolic weapon. Medieval universities would not defend themselves with the sword. It was not considered appropriate for gentle scholars to draw blood, but they could defend, using a cudgel—and they did. The mace has come to stand as a symbol for two critical matters. First, it stands for the freedom of the academy to seek the truth and to teach it. It also stands for the authority of the academy. This authority is best described by two traditional Latin terms: magisterlun and auctoritas. Under the first term, magisterlun, is included control of equipment, building and grounds, as well as the behavior of members and visitors—ensuring order and liberty. Under the second term, auctoritas, is included a defense of the liberty to do research, to study, to publish and to learn. The mace makes the statement that the academy must protect and foster those things.

The Floyd College mace was designed by Mr. David Mott, Assistant Professor of Art and Dr. David Cook, Professor of Biology. The faculty selected Mr. Jerry Shelton, Director, Office of Institutional Effectiveness, to have the honor of carrying the mace in the processional.

The academic banners being borne by the division chairs in the processional are custom designed to reflect the disciplines of each division.

Dr. Stephen R. Portch, Chancellor

Dr. Stephen R. Portch is the ninth Chancellor of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia and is responsible for the state's system of 34 public colleges and universities. The System is the fourth largest in the nation, with more than 205,000 students, 30,600 employees and a $2.5 billion budget.

Dr. Portch came to Georgia in 1994 after an eighteen-year career with the University of Wisconsin System, which he joined as an Assistant Professor of English in 1976. He later headed a college campus before becoming Chancellor of the University of Wisconsin Centers from 1986 to 1991, and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs from 1991 to 1994.

A native of Somerset, England, Chancellor Portch moved to the United States in 1974 after earning a bachelor's degree in English at the University of Reading. He holds Ph.D. and master's degrees from The Pennsylvania State University. He also is a widely published author and an accomplished equestrian.

Richard Wayne Trimble

A native of Cullman, Alabama, Richard W. Trimble came to Floyd College as Assistant Professor of Mathematics when the institution was in its infancy in 1971. He had previously taught at Auburn University where he had earned both Masters and Ph.D. degrees in Mathematics. His undergraduate degree was completed at Valparaiso University in Indiana.

In the past 26 years, Dr. Trimble has been an invaluable asset to Floyd College in a number of capacities. He has served as Director of Developmental Studies, Director of Special Studies, and Chairman of the Division of Developmental Studies, in addition to obtaining the rank of full Professor of Mathematics.

From July 1991 through November 1992, Dr. Trimble took the helm at Floyd College as Acting President, at the request of the Chancellor of the University System of Georgia. His sound leadership and strength made the transition between presidents seamless.

Because of his many contributions to Floyd College, but most importantly because of his reputation as a highly respected Professor, Dr. Richard W. Trimble has been selected to receive the Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award for 1997.

Mary Louise Burk Lever

Mary Louise Burk Lever is a native of Rome who has been a friend and supporter of Floyd College for many years. Ms. Lever is a graduate of Georgia College in Milledgeville with a double major in Biology and Home Economics. In addition, she has taken graduate courses in science and psychology at the University of Georgia. Ms. Lever was married to the late Dr. Joseph E. Lever and lived and taught school in Sandersville, Georgia before his death.

In 1979, Ms. Lever became a member of the Floyd College Foundation. She was appointed Chair of the Foundation in 1985 and served in that capacity until January 1997.

Ms. Lever is a national award-winning chef, having won more than 90 recipe contests, and often shares monetary proceeds from cooking contests with the Floyd College Foundation. Articles about her have appeared in numerous national and regional magazines and newspapers. In the past year, Ms. Lever was named one of the "96 Southerners to Watch" by Olympic Atlanta Magazine, published by the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

Because of Ms. Lever's leadership of the Floyd College Foundation and the thousands of hours she has spent planning and participating in successful fund-raising efforts on the college's behalf, she is presented with the 1997 President's Award.

Floyd College On Leading Edge of Education's Future

In its twenty-six year history, Floyd College has served the Northwest Georgia community with a solid educational foundation for the first two years of college. In recent years, the college has become more innovative with its outreach and programming, offering more courses via nontraditional means to meet the needs of its diverse student population, and initiating programs which will serve as models for college across the country.

In 1994 the college opened Heritage Hall in downtown Rome to be more accessible to the working student. FCTV, a 24-hour cable television station went on the air that same year to offer classes that could be viewed multiple times a week for those with scheduling conflicts. An open-access channel, FCTV also offers outreach programs to the community such as news in Spanish, and job search programming. Another new project teaches American Sign Language to interpreters through total immersion in an abbreviated period of time. This program was initiated in 1996 and has been included as a "National Pattern of Academic Excellence" program by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia.

In the coming year, Floyd College will be a leader for the future of education as it focuses on innovation and technology in the classroom with the Information Technology Project (ITP).

A ground-breaking pilot program with national implications, the ITP proposes to change the way students learn by making them more participatory in their classes, increasing access to their instructors and classmates outside of class, and by providing access to a world of resources. All this will be accomplished by putting laptop computers in every student's hands and providing services which open the lines of communication and ease administrative functions.

Not only does this project propose to help students retain what they learn, but it will also increase their marketability when they seek employment after college.

As Floyd College progresses towards the 21st century, it will continue to offer the best, most advanced educational foundation to its student body. Your support and comments are appreciated.

Academic Regalia

Regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges

Time to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early number of scholars were prepared for the priesthood and many of those who opted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, it kept the scholars apart from the churchmen.

There are three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long sleeves. The master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed halfway for the hands; the doctor's gown has full length lapels and three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn by the institutions granting the degree and faced with the hood. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three feet. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined according to the following scheme: Arts—white; Physical Education—green; Business Administration—drab;

The mace is actually a club; it is a symbolic weapon. Medieval times, it was used with the sword. It was not considered appropriate for gentle men to fight, using a cudgel — and they did. The mace has come to symbolize the authority of the academy. This authority is best described by the word auctoritas. Under the first term, magisterium, is included the behavior of members and visitors — and the term, auctoritas, is included a defense of the liberty to do as one pleases. The mace makes the statement that the academy must be led by Mr. David Mott, Associate Professor of Art and Dr. . . . The faculty selected Ms. Belen Nora, Chair, Division of . . . , to have the honor of carrying the mace in the processional.

Commencement Speaker Robert Benham, Chief Justice of the Georgia Supreme Court

Chief Justice of the Georgia Supreme Court, Robert Benham is a cum laude graduate of Tuskegee University. He received his Jurid Doctor degree from the University of Georgia and his Masters of Laws degree from the University of Virginia.

He served as a judge on the Georgia Court of Appeals for six years until his appointment to the Georgia Supreme Court where he now serves as Chief Justice.

Chief Justice Benham serves as Chief Justice Rehnquist's appointee to the Federal-State Jurisdiction Committee. The National Society of Professionals in Alternative Dispute Resolution has chosen him to serve as National Chair of the Study Committee on Alternative Dispute Resolution.

Chief Justice Benham's court is listed as one of the most progressive Supreme Courts in the nation by the American Bar Association Journal. Chief Justice Benham is listed in the Informer magazine and Georgia Trend magazine as an outstanding leader in Georgia. The Atlanta Constitution lists Chief Justice Benham as an outstanding leader in the southeast. Ebony magazine lists him as one of the 100 Most Influential Black Americans in America.

Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award Jo Anne Starnes

Jo Anne Starnes, who had been teaching at Jacksonville State University, was hired as an English instructor when Floyd College first opened in temporary quarters in downtown Rome in 1970. Since then she has earned her Ph.D. in English from Georgia State University, been promoted to full professor, and now serves as Coordinator of English studies.

In her time at Floyd College Dr. Starnes has served on many faculty and college committees. She was chair of the Statutes and Faculty Affairs Committee for several years, chair of the Educational Programs Committee in the college's first SACS self-study, and was a member of the President's Blue Ribbon Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics. She is also a member of the Regents' Academic Advisory Committee on English. She served for many years as Floyd College's Regents' Test Coordinator and was a faculty adviser for the Old Red Kimono fine arts magazine for approximately thirteen years. She has also served multiple terms as president of the Floyd College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Dr. Starnes has also been active in the international studies program, taking students on two trips to Western Europe, one to Greece, and one to Ireland. She also assisted with one of the course credit trips to Canada and has organized trips for students to New York City and the Georgia Shakespeare Festival. Dr. Starnes was selected to participate in two of the Regent's International Faculty Development Seminars, traveling to South Africa in 1996 and India in 1997.

In recent years Dr. Starnes has embraced the technological changes at Floyd College. She was among the first four years ago to teach a course on FCTV and has also taught through GSAMS.

Dr. Starnes and her husband, Eddie, have two sons, one in Athens and one in Houston, Texas.

As she retires from Floyd College, she leaves behind an outstanding record of service and teaching, and many colleagues who will miss her wisdom and guidance. It is because of her outstanding legacy to Floyd College that her peers have elected her to receive the 1998 Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award.

President's Award Thomas Bailey Murphy

Thomas Bailey Murphy was born March 10, 1924 in Haralson County, Georgia. He is married to Harvey Murphy and Leita Jones Murphy.

Mr. Murphy graduated from Bremen High School in 1941. He graduated from the University of Georgia, graduating May 9, 1943. Ten days after graduation he joined the United States Navy and served on the South Pacific during World War II. He was discharged from the Navy in 1946.

After his discharge he returned to Bremen, married Agnes June Murphy, and they moved to Macon, Georgia. He attended the University of Georgia School of Law. He graduated from law school in 1948 and he and his brother, James Murphy, opened the law firm of Murphy & Murphy.

Mr. Murphy ran and was elected to the Georgia House of Representatives in 1967 and served as Administrative Floor Leader by Governor Lester Maddox in 1967 and 1968. He was elected by members of the House of Representatives as Speaker of the House in 1974 and on January 14, 1978 he was elected Speaker of the House. He has held this position longer than any other Speaker in the history of the Georgia House.

Mr. Murphy and his wife have one son, Michael Louis Murphy. They have four daughters: Lynn Murphy McAdams and Mary Jane Murphy. Mr. Murphy also has three grandchildren: Holly Long, Lauren Murphy and Lyndsey McAdams.

Thomas B. Murphy has dedicated his life to his family and public service. He has served the State of Georgia. In 1995 he was instrumental in bringing Floyd College to the State of Georgia. His support of Floyd College, the 1998 President's Meritorious Award.

Floyd College On Leadership of Education's Future

In its twenty-six year history, Floyd College has served the North Georgia community as an educational foundation for the first two years of college. In recent years the college has expanded its outreach and programming, offering more courses via nontraditional methods, and initiating programs which will serve as models for other colleges.

In 1994 the college opened Heritage Hall in downtown Rome to house its new television station, FCTV, a 24-hour cable television station went on the air that same year. It broadcasts live programming four times a week for those with scheduling conflicts. An open-access channel is available to all counties. Another new project teaches American Sign Language to improve communication during an abbreviated period of time. This program was initiated in 1996 and has been successful. The "Academic Excellence" program by the Board of Regents of the University of Georgia.

The 1997-98 academic year brought national attention to Floyd College. The college implemented a ground-breaking program to change the way students learn. The project included increased access to instructors and classmates outside of class, and providing laptop computers in every student's hands.

Also this year, construction began on a new classroom building consisting of four classrooms, an auditorium, and an art gallery. The Student Center renovation. Both projects are expected to be completed in early 1999.

A new Bartow County center has been approved by the Board of Regents. The center will serve college centers in Cartersville and at North Metro Technical Institute. The center is expected to serve more than 1,500 students when it opens in 2002.

For the first time in the history of Floyd College, the academic calendar was changed for the Semester System in the fall of 1998, as mandated by the Board of Regents. College personnel have been working with students for the past two years to prepare for the change.

As Floyd College progresses towards the 21st century, it will continue to serve as an educational foundation to its student body. Your support and commitment are appreciated.
