Are You Creative?

In an effort to better define the image of Floyd College we would like to adopt a college slogan and a flag. The slogan needs to be brief—three or four words—and expressive of the essence of Floyd College. (Now that's a challenge!) The slogan will possibly be used on stationery, in news releases, in advertising and in other applications.

If you submit a design for a flag, it should have elements relative to Floyd College’s history and mission. The chosen design will be made into a large flag which will be flown at the entrance of the college.

Please encourage students to participate in the development of the slogan and design. We would like to have a lot of submissions from which to choose. Entries should be turned in to the Public Information Office by January 5, 1993.

Dr. Cundiff Wants Your Suggestions

Dr. Cundiff would like to hear your concerns and suggestions relating to Floyd College. Please send your comments to him regarding any aspect of the college community--academic, aesthetic, administration, personnel, etc. Notes may be sent confidentially to the President's Office. All notes will receive a personal reply.

Floyd Receives Grant to Promote Volunteerism

Harold Boyd, vice president for Student Affairs, has recently been notified that a $23,000 grant has been awarded to the college to establish a community service program in two area high schools.

The program is designed to encourage students to get involved in community service work and to integrate that experience into their high school curriculum. "It will demonstrate how classroom work relates to the 'real world,'" Mr. Boyd said. Jackie Deere, volunteer coordinator, will coordinate the program which will use students in Cedartown and Rome High Schools.

She will develop the placements for the students in a volunteer setting and will conduct reflective seminars in the classroom to tie the community service work into the classroom work. The students will participate on a volunteer basis and will be evaluated on their work.

The grant money is from the Serve America program which is component of the National Community Service Act. The award is for one year, with the possibility for renewal in later years.

Mr. Boyd expects the program to begin after the first of the year.

Floyd College Folks & Features is published biweekly on Fridays. Deadline for copy is 12 noon Tuesday prior to publication. Information should be typed and submitted to the Public Information Office.

December 4, 1992

Sandy M. Briscar, editor, P.O. Box 1864, 706/295-6366
Folks

Phyllis Weatherly, director of guidance services, recently facilitated an Idea Exchange session on "Counseling on the College/University Campus" at the Southern Association for College Student Affairs 43rd annual conference.

Paula Almond, counselor, and Phyllis Weatherly attended the Executive Board meeting for the Georgia College Personnel Association. Ms. Weatherly is president of the group. Paula and Leslie Lunney, counselor intern in the Guidance Department, recently became co-membership chairmen of the organization.

Michael Burton, coordinator of the Hearing Impaired program, has a bronze sculpture for sale as part of the fifth annual "Touchables Exhibition" at Georgia Institute of Technology. The sculpture exhibit is being held in the Westbrook Gallery now through December 14. A portion of the sales proceeds will be donated to The Atlanta Center for the Visually Impaired.

Denise Babin, assistant librarian for technical services, and Jill Davis, library assistant, attended a workshop at Young Harris where they learned how to use a new software package which is now necessary for operating GOLD.

Welcome the following new employees: Juanita Morgan and Linda Smith who both work in the cafeteria.

Keep the following people in your thoughts and prayers: Ruthie Lawler, publications editor, and Judson Moss, assistant professor of education, who were recently hospitalized, Glenn Singleton, assistant professor of business administration, upon the death of his father, and Shirley Gilbreath, food service worker, upon the death of her father-in-law.

Jim Cook, professor of history, has had a manuscript on Samuel Elbert accepted for publication in the American National Biography.

Activities

The Flavors of Floyd College, the cookbook produced by the Floyd College Foundation, will be on sale Saturday, December 5, beginning at 11:30 a.m. at Waldenbooks. Please stop by and purchase your copy of the book if you haven't already. They make great gifts! The cost is $10. Mary Louise Lever, chairman of the Foundation, will be on hand with samples of a recipe from the book.

The following public service courses will be held in the coming weeks:

• The Sales Leader: Dynamic Sales Strategies
• So You Want To Be A Nurse
• Dental Hygiene... A Proud Profession (an introduction)
• Getting Started at Floyd College: Seminar for College-bound Adults

For information or to register for a course, call the Public Service and Continuing Education office at 295-6324.

The FC Library offers individual training sessions on using the library for faculty and staff upon request. These can be designed to meet your individual needs. You can be instructed on the use of reference materials, computer applications, etc. An appointment can be scheduled at your convenience by calling the library. Printed tutorials on library usage are also available.