Contractor Named for Classroom Building

The Flagler Company has been awarded the contract to construct Floyd College’s newest classroom building and to renovate the Student Center area.

Contractors and college officials plan to break ground for the $3.3 million building in a ceremony scheduled for 5 p.m. Thursday, December 4.

The 27,000 square-foot building will house five classrooms, an art lab, and a 360-seat auditorium which can be split into two rooms of 180 seats each.

The 6,500 square-foot addition in the student center will include new offices for the Department of Student Life, as well as additional seating areas.

The contractor is expected to work on both projects at once, according to Doug Webb, director of Plant Operations. Final details about the construction schedule will be worked out at a meeting scheduled for November 18.

FC/CC&SU Show
ITP to State Administrators

In an attempt to provide a practical guide for other institutions within the University System of Georgia who may be interested in implementing a project similar to the ITP, Floyd College and Clayton College and State University hosted a meeting Friday, November 14, at CCSU.

Presenters from Floyd College included, President Lynn Cundiff, Bruce Jones, project director, Wes Jones, vice president for Finance and Administration, Sandy Briscar, director of Public Information, and Dana Marko, employee development and training coordinator.
President Lynn Cundiff is one of 20 people in the country to serve on the National Minority Commission. He attended a meeting of the organization last week in Washington, DC.

Ken Spruce, assistant professor of Political Science, led a delegation of FC students to the Organization of African Unity Conference held in Macon November 6-8. Students Peter Ndaraya and Torri Simpson attended the conference as an extension of their membership with the Political Science Association, a student organization primarily serving the North Metro and Cartersville campuses.

Phyllis Camp is leaving the Financial Aid Office to become the college’s assessment coordinator.

Sandy Briscar, director of public information, was one of seven people to represent the 690 members of the Georgia Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America at the Society’s national conference held in Nashville last weekend.

Students and faculty will celebrate Thanksgiving November 26-29. Tuesday night classes will meet. All other employees will report on Wednesday, November 27, and be off Thursday and Friday.

The annual Turkey Walk sponsored by the HPER Department will be held Wednesday, November 19, at noon by the lake. The participant who comes closest to guessing his or her time wins a turkey.

The quarterly Intramural Sports Banquet will be held Thursday, November 20, at 1:15 in the lobby of the PE building.

There will be an end of the quarter employee breakfast Thursday, December 11. Details will be announced later.
