ACADEMIC REGALIA

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature at all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church—a large number of the scholars were preparing for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergyman—the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves, the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts - white; Science - gold-yellow; Nursing - apricot; Physical Education - green; Business Administration - drab; Librarianship - lemon; Education - blue.

The Floyd Junior College Laureate Society was established Spring Quarter, 1982 to recognize currently enrolled students who have taken 42 or more quarter credit hours, and have earned a 3.6 or better grade point average at Floyd Junior College.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have achieved or lost Honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd Junior College to award a given degree or a given Honors status.

For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the Office of the Registrar, Floyd Junior College.

Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church—a large number of the scholars were preparing for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergymen—the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's, four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts - white; Science - gold/yellow; Nursing - apricot; Physical Education - green; Business Administration - drab; Librarianship - lemon; Education - blue.

Our Commencement Speaker —

JOE FRANK HARRIS

Joe Frank Harris took office on January 11, 1983, as the 78th Governor of the State of Georgia. A lifelong Democrat, Harris served 18 years as a member of the House of Representatives before seeking the Governorship in 1982. For the last eight of those years, he was Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, a position which provided him with the intimate knowledge of the State's budget process. He is the acknowledged expert on State revenues and expenditures.

A businessman, Harris has injected a businesslike management style and organization into State government. He has strictly adhered to his campaign pledge of no new state taxes, a pledge which has not stood in the way of his commitment to improve funding for public education. In fact, Harris recommended — and the General Assembly has approved — over $1 billion in improvements for education spending in the first three budgets of his Administration. Over 60 percent of all new funds available for appropriation have gone toward education since Harris took office.

Last year Harris sponsored the Quality Basic Education Act based on the findings and recommendations of the Governor's Education Review Commission, a 41 member panel he appointed to assess Georgia's educational system and to recommend a program and funding to bring about dramatic improvements. The Q.B.E. bill was passed without a single dissenting vote in either house, true testimony to the Governor's recognized leadership and commitment to excellence in education.

Education reform will remain Harris' highest priority while in office, but he couples his call for educational improvement with efforts to stimulate and enhance economic development in Georgia. The two go hand-in-hand, he contends.

Born on February 16, 1936, in Bartow County, Harris is the second of three children of Franklin Grover Harris of Gilmer County and Frances Morrow Harris of Newton County. He received his primary and secondary education in the Cartersville Public Schools and completed a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration at the University of Georgia in 1958. He is married to the former Elizabeth Carlock and they have one son, Joe, who attends the University of Georgia.

Our Commencement Speaker

E.M. (Buddy) Childers

E.M. (Buddy) Childers has been a member of the Georgia House of Representa tives since 1975. He is Chairman of the Health and Ecology Committee and member of the Appropriations Committee and the University System of Georgi Committee, on which he serves as Chairman of the Junior Colleges, Private Colleges and Proprietary Schools Regents Liaison.

He has been named Legislator of the Year by both the Public Health Associa tion and the Mental Health Association of Georgia. Northwest Regional Hospit and the Georgia Medical Association have each recognized him for outstandin work on health and mental health issues.

Mr. Childers is a lifelong resident of Floyd County, having been educat
Johnson and Riverside Elementary Schools and Model High School, graduatin in 1956.

He is employed with Southern Bell Telephone Company as a repairman. He i married to the former Martha Bynum and has two children.

History of Floyd Junior College

In 1968 the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authoriz the establishment of Floyd Junior College in Floyd County. Under the board policy the local community would provide a campus site and funds for the con struction of facilities required for the college's opening.

Led by the Junior College Committee headed by Rome attorney J.D. Maddo county citizens overwhelmingly accepted the responsibility by approving November 5, 1968, by more than a three to one margin, a bond issue to provid funds for the construction of the college.

Construction of facilities began in early 1970 and was completed by the late part of the year. Fall quarter classes began that year in temporary headquarters town Rome. By the end of fall quarter all college operations were move on campus.

The facilities consisted of four buildings: Academic, Administration, Physica Education and Physical Plant.

At the start of its second year in 1971, Floyd Junior College had formed its offi cial Student Government Association. Officers were elected according to the rules in the constitution, adopted by the students in spring 1971. Official schoo colors of red, blue, and white and the nickname, "Chargers," were chosen by th student body in 1970-71.

Today, Floyd Junior College offers four basic areas of study:
• Transfer programs for students planning to continue their education at other institutions;
• Career programs designed to give students a basic core of general education and prepare them for employment immediately upon successful completion of the program;
• A developmental studies program providing remedial courses in English, mathematics, and reading; and
• A public service program offering non-credit courses of special interest to the community.

Facilities have expanded from the four original buildings and now include a spacious library and physical education complex complete with gymnasium.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church — a large number of scholars were preparing for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergy — the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from the churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts — white; Science — gold/yellow; Nursing — apricot; Physical Education — green; Business Administration — drab; Librarianship — lemon; Education — blue.

Our Commencement Speaker

James Derward Powell

In 1967, when Coosa Valley Tech became Coosa Valley Technical Institute, J. Derward Powell was chosen as its first President. This was an honor richly deserved for he has devoted more than 20 years of his educational career in the service of vocational education in this area.

Mr. Powell was born in Sylvania, Georgia. He was educated in the Screven County public schools, and he received his undergraduate degree from Berry College and his Master's degree from the University of Georgia. He came to Coosa Valley Tech in 1967 as an instructor of Drafting and Design Technology. Later, he was chosen as the Director of Coosa Valley Tech.

Besides his duties at Coosa Valley Technical Institute, Mr. Powell is a member of the American Vocational Association, the Georgia Vocational Association, and was appointed by Governor George Busbee as a member of the Governor's Committee on Post Secondary Education. In 1984, he was appointed as a member of the Georgia Council on Vocational Education by Governor Joe Frank Harris.

Mr. Powell is a member of the First Baptist Church of Rome where he is the past Chairman of the Board of Deacons, a member of the Chancel Choir, a Sunday school teacher and a member of the Floyd County Baptist Association Administration Committee. Mr. Powell is married to the former Justene Spruell and has three children, Jim, Allison, and April. He is the proud grandfather of five grandchildren.

History of Floyd College

In 1968 the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authorized the establishment of Floyd Junior College in Floyd County. Under the board's policy the local community would provide a campus site and funds for the construction of facilities required for the college's opening.

Led by the Junior College Committee headed by Rome attorney J.D. Maddox, Floyd County citizens overwhelmingly accepted the responsibility by approving on November 5, 1968, by more than a three to one margin, a bond issue to provide funds for the construction of the college.

In 1971, Floyd Junior College formed its official Student Government Association. Officers were elected according to the rules in the constitution, adopted by the students in spring 1971. Official school colors of red, blue, and white and the nickname, "Chargers," were chosen by the student body in 1970.

In 1987 the Board of Regents gave permission for Floyd Junior College to expand its programs and to change its name to Floyd College.

Since its inception, Floyd College has led the state in several innovative and outstanding programs. Among them are programs for the hearing impaired, an honors program for academic students and a highly respected nursing program. Today, Floyd College offers Associate Degrees in Arts and Sciences, Applied Science and Nursing as well as a wide variety of public service programs.

The Floyd Campus has been expanded from the original four buildings to a spacious library and physical education complex complete with a

Our Commencement Speaker

Dr. Rebecca Hughes Cook

Dr. Rebecca Hughes Cook, an internist at Harbin Clinic and graduate of Floyd College will give the commencement address. Dr. Cook is the first Floyd College alumna and first woman to serve as commencement speaker.

A native of Anniston, Ala., Dr. Cook moved to Rome in 1966 and attended Floyd County schools, graduating from Model High School in 1971. In 1973 she was an honor graduate and member of the first class to receive the Associate of Science in Nursing degree from Floyd College.

She went on to earn a bachelor's degree in zoology from the University of Georgia in 1975 and an M.D. degree from the Medical College of Georgia in 1979. After completing a residency in internal medicine at Georgia Baptist Hospital, she returned to Rome to the Family Practice Program at Floyd Medical Center. In 1982 she joined Harbin Clinic. Dr. Cook was the recipient of the Floyd College Distinguished Alumni Award in 1984. She is married to Dr. David Cook, professor of Biology and chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at Floyd College.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of those schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church—a large number of scholars were prepared for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergymen—the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from the churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor’s gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master’s gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor’s gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master’s gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor’s hood is three feet long, the master’s three and a half, and the doctor’s four. The doctor’s hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme: Arts—white; Science—gold/yellow; Nursing—apricot; Physical Education—green; Business Administration—dab; Librarianship—lemon; Education—blue.

The Floyd College Laureate Society was established Spring Quarter, 1982 to recognize currently enrolled students who have taken 42 or more quarter credit hours, and have earned a 3.6 or better grade point average at Floyd College.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have achieved or lost Honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd College to award a given degree or a given Honors status.

For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the Office of the Registrar, Floyd College.

Our Commencement Speaker

Ms. Laura Paynter

Laura Thomas Paynter is a legally disabled, single mother of three children. She is a member of PEACH, an organization which provides assistance for single parents.

Ms. Paynter served as the 1990-1991 president of the Floyd College Student Government Association. She is an honor graduate, a member of the Laureate Society, and a recipient of the 1991 Floyd College Leadership Award. She has devoted extensive hours to volunteer projects and community affairs.

Ms. Paynter will earn her Associate Degree in Applied Science in Marketing and Management from Floyd College. She plans to attend Berry College this fall in pursuit of a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communications, with a minor in political science. Her long term goal is to gain a law degree and to become active in governmental affairs.

History of Floyd College

In 1968 the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authorized the establishment of Floyd Junior College in Floyd County. Under the board's policy the local community would provide a campus site and funds for the construction of facilities required for the college's opening.

Led by the Junior College committee headed by Rome attorney J.D. Maddox, Floyd County citizens overwhelmingly accepted the responsibility by approving on November 5, 1968, by more than a three to one margin, a bond issue to provide funds for the construction of the college.

In 1971, Floyd Junior College formed its official Student Government Association. Officers were elected according to the rules of the constitution, adopted by the students in spring 1971. Official school colors of red, blue, and white and the nickname, "Chargers," were chosen by the student body in 1970-71.

In 1987 the Board of Regents gave permission for Floyd Junior College to expand its programs and to change its name to Floyd College.

Since its inception, Floyd College has led the state in several innovative and outstanding programs. Among them are programs for the hearing impaired, an honors program for academic students and a highly respected nursing program. Today, Floyd College offers Associate Degrees in Arts and Sciences, Applied Science and Nursing as well as a wide variety of public service programs.

The Floyd Campus has been expanded from the original four buildings to now include a spacious library, physical education complex complete with a gymnasium, and a new administration annex completed spring 1991.

Stylized and diverse academic dress was worn by faculty and students.

The use of a particular academic color scheme was not common in American academia, and open sleeves; all hoods (there are many types) are usually velvet and bell-shaped, with either open or closed hoods.

All hoods are loose, lightweight, and can be deterministically tied. The color of the hood can be determined by the institution—gold/yellow for Science—gold/yellow for Librarianship—light blue for Business.

The Floyd College student body also maintained a high grade point average, with some students achieving perfect scores on certain exams.

The list of degree candidates is extensive, and some graduates will likely pursue further education or enter the workforce immediately.

For official purposes, the list of degree candidates has been reviewed and verified.

The status of some candidates is pending, and others will likely receive their degrees at a future ceremony.

Our Commencement Speaker

George W. (Buddy) Darden, Jr.

Congressman George W. (Buddy) Darden, Jr. was first chosen to represent Georgia's 7th District in a November 1983 special election to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman Larry McDonald. The 7th District includes Floyd and other northwest Georgia counties. Darden won re-election in 1984, 1986, 1988, 1990, and 1992.

Congressman Darden earned a law degree from the University of Georgia in 1967. He served as a Cobb County District Attorney from 1973-1977. He represented west Cobb County in the Georgia House of Representatives from 1981 until his election to Congress.

Darden is married to the former Lillian Budd of Atlanta. They have two children: Christy, born in 1971, and George, born in 1974.

Dr. Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award

Richard O. Hays

Richard O. Hays of Cedartown has been elected by his peers to receive the 1994 Wesley M. Walraven Faculty Award. Dr. Hays has taught at Floyd College since it opened in 1970 and will be retiring this month.

A native of Atlanta, Dr. Hays received a bachelor of science degree from Georgia State University, a master of science degree from the University of North Carolina and a Ph.D. degree from Auburn University, all in physics. At Floyd College, Dr. Hays has chaired the Floyd College/Coosa Valley Technical Institute Joint Oversight Committee for a number of years.

President's Meritorious Award

James E. Brown

James E. Brown of Dalton has been selected to receive the 1994 President's Award for his service to Floyd College as a member of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. A native of Dalton, Georgia, Mr. Brown founded Brown Printing Company in 1958. In 1970, Brown Printing and four other related area companies completed a merger agreement with National Service Industries, Inc., becoming the Marketing Services Division of NSI and specializing in marketing services for the carpet industry. Mr. Brown now is Chairman and CEO of this division which is presently comprised of twelve companies with locations in Dalton, Atlanta and Chatsworth, Georgia.

In addition to his tenure on the Board of Regents, Mr. Brown is heavily involved in community service and is currently Chairman of the Advisory Board of Directors of Wachovia Bank of Georgia, Northwest Georgia Division. He is a member of the First United Methodist Church of Dalton where he serves on the administrative board.

Mr. Brown is married to the former Mary Helen Morris of Oneida, Tennessee.

Meritorious Staff Award

Vivian Ray Benton

Vivian Ray Benton came to Floyd College as Secretary to the Dean when the college was in its infancy in April of 1970. She hails from Oglethorpe County, Georgia, graduating from Washington-Wilkes High School, and holds a diploma from Greenleaf Business College. Ms. Benton worked as a clerk for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and attended Georgia State University for two years before coming to Rome.

In 1974 she was promoted to Staff Assistant in the Dean's Office, and in 1988, became Assistant to the Dean. Ms. Benton has been the common thread, providing scheduling and organization of class offerings in the academic division of Floyd College for 25 years. Her contributions to and knowledge of the office have made her an invaluable asset to Floyd College.

It is with great admiration and respect that Floyd College presents to Vivian Benton its first Meritorious Staff Award which will hereafter be known as the Vivian R. Benton Staff Award.

History of Floyd College

Founded in 1970 as Floyd Junior College, Floyd College is a two-year unit of the University System of Georgia. It serves students who commute from throughout a large portion of northwest Georgia and northeast Alabama.

In 1968 the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authorized the establishment of Floyd Junior College in Floyd County. Under the Board's policy the local community would provide a campus site and funds for the construction of the initial facilities. Led by the Junior College Committee headed by Rome attorney J.D. Maddox, Floyd County citizens responded enthusiastically by approving a $3.2 million bond issue by a margin of nearly three to one. Construction began in early 1970. The College's first classes were offered during the fall quarter of 1970 in temporary facilities, but by the end of 1970 all operations were moved on campus.

Dr. David B. McCorkle became the first president of Floyd Junior College on January 1, 1970, and served in that position until June 30, 1991. In recognition of his long and distinguished service to Floyd College and the community, the Board of Regents named him President Emeritus of Floyd College effective January 1, 1991. Following Dr. McCorkle's retirement, Dr. Richard Trimble was appointed Acting President of Floyd College and served until the November 1992 selection of Dr. H. Lynn Cundiff as the College's second president.

Now enrolling approximately three thousand students in academic programs, Floyd College also offers a large and varied community-education program and operates extension centers in Cartersville and Acworth. The College pioneered in developing cooperative programs with Coosa Valley Technical Institute as early as 1972 and now also offers joint programs with North Metro Technical Institute in Acworth.

In 1994 Floyd College continued its expansion and outreach by acquiring the East Rome Junior High School facility in downtown Rome. The college began offering classes in the building beginning Winter, 1995. A portion of the facility is used to house a television studio through which academic classes are broadcast over a local cable channel.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have received or lost Honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd College to award a given degree or a given Honors status.

For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the office of the Registrar, Floyd College.
Our Commencement Speaker

Dr. Fred Gainous

Mr. Rhodes graduated from the University of Georgia with a degree in vocational education and began his career as a teacher at Milton High School. There, he met and married Daisy Campbell.

Before WWII, Mr. Rhodes served as a County Extension Agent in Spalding County, Carrollton, and Bremen. Following the war, he bought City Lumber Company of Bremen and began raising Angus and Gelbvieh cows, and a herd of Belgium horses.

Mr. Rhodes was named to the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia in 1984. He has served as Chairman of the Board, and currently represents the board on the Metropolitan Atlanta Olympic Games Authority.

As a board member, Regent Rhodes has been a true friend to Floyd College, supporting many special initiatives and always being available for consultation. It is with sincere appreciation that the President's Meritorious Award is presented to Regent Edgar L. Rhodes.

Dr. Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award

Belen Dizon Nora

Belen Dizon Nora, Chairman of the Division of Health Sciences, came to Floyd College in 1971. A native of the Philippines, Ms. Nora was awarded a B.S.N. degree from the University of the Philippines, and a M.S. degree in nursing education from the University of Chicago. She has since done postgraduate work in maternity nursing at that same institution.

Before coming to Floyd College, Ms. Nora served as Assistant Director of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Worcester, Massachusetts. At Floyd College, Ms. Nora has led the nursing program to prominence, graduating more than 1,100 students of exemplary quality, most of whom have remained in Northwest Georgia to serve our community.

For her contributions to Floyd College, for her leadership and standards of excellence, Floyd College, upon recommendation of the faculty, awards the Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award to Belen Nora.

Dr. James Muyskens

Dr. James Muyskens, Senior Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, University System of Georgia, received a Masters of Divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1967 and a Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1971.

He joined the faculty of Hunter College of the City University of New York in 1961. While at Hunter he moved in the faculty ranks from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor to Full Professor. He is the author of several books and numerous articles in ethics and the philosophy of religion.

Vice Chancellor Muyskens was the Chair of the Department of Philosophy at Hunter from 1973 through 1980. After a year as a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellow at the Hastings Center, he returned to Hunter as Associate Provost. In the fall of 1987 he was named Acting Provost and Vice President of the College.

In 1988, he became Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Kansas—a college of 50 departments, programs and centers with a student body of 15,000 and a full-time faculty of 620. As a professor in the Department of Philosophy he also taught courses in ethics and the philosophy of religion.

On September 1, 1995, Dr. Muyskens assumed the position of Senior Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. He is responsible for meeting the academic needs of 204,000 students and for working with more than 8,000 University System faculty members.

President's Meritorious Award

Mr. W. Thomas Melton

After graduating from the University of Georgia and serving in the U.S. Army, W. Thomas Melton worked for two years as an internal auditor for the Board of Regents in Atlanta. In 1970 he was chosen to become the first Business Officer of newly opened Floyd College.

Mr. Melton has devoted his professional life to Floyd College. He has successfully managed the finances of the college through its growth from 500-3,000 students and through numerous building and expansion projects.

In 1989 Mr. Melton was named Vice President for Business and Finance. In addition to his office duties, Mr. Melton has served on numerous committees and has spearheaded many projects to advance the college. He has worked closely with the Floyd College Foundation, helping to secure money for scholarships and coordinating the renovation of Centre Stage at Heritage Hall for community use.

Without his determination and aggressive vision, much of what Floyd College is today would never have come to be.

Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award

Dr. C. David Cook

C. David Cook is a native of Gaylesville, Alabama. He is a graduate of Jacksonville State University and the University of Georgia, where he received the Doctor of Philosophy degree in biology.

Dr. Cook has served Floyd College for more than 26 years as an instructor, as an administrator, and in leadership roles on committees and student events. Dr. Cook was hired in September 1970 as Chair of the Division of Natural Sciences. During his last year as Chair, Dave assumed the duties of night administrator.

Dr. Cook is recognized by his peers and by students as an individual who loves learning. He has accumulated a truly liberal education. Numerous students over the years have testified to Dr. Cooks' influence upon their development of interests in learning.

For his contributions to Floyd College, for his leadership and standards of excellence, Floyd College, upon recommendation of the faculty, awards the Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award to C. David Cook.
Vivian R. Benton Staff Award
Ms. Carol D. Pilgrim

Ms. Carol Pilgrim has been an employee of the College since 1979. She began in the Division of Business, later transferred to the Nursing Division, and finally moved into the Business Office where she has been secretary to the Vice President for Business and Finance for eight years. Carol is extremely knowledgeable about all of the College's operations and is always helpful to students, faculty and staff. She has given her time unselfishly, working late hours on many occasions to make sure that all the details of a particular project have been taken care of. She willingly serves on committees, assists with special events and projects, and anything else which the college calls upon her to do. There have been many facets to her job over the years and she has handled them all with remarkable grace and efficiency.

Outstanding Administrator Award
Ms. Sarah H. Burkhalter

Ms. Sarah Burkhalter came to the College in 1972 as a clerk in the Admissions Office. She began a career that not only led to her becoming the Assistant Director of Continuing Education for Floyd College but becoming one of the most effective community leaders in Rome and one of the state's most respected leaders in Continuing and Adult Education. Sarah is dedicated and loyal to Floyd College, willing to work long hours to accomplish her goal of the best two-year continuing education program in our state. She single-handedly developed the Secretaries Day Seminar, which is one of the most successful non-academic programs of the College. She has served on numerous committees on campus as well as in the community where her activities run from women's leadership to the United Way. She has also served in many capacities in the Georgia Adult Education Association. Ms. Burkhalter is admired and respected by all who have had the privilege of working with her. She is a credit to the College, the community and to her profession.

The list of degree candidates was required by the printer several days prior to commencement to allow production of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. Some will not have completed all requirements for their degrees, and some will have received or lost Honors status. The listing of the names in this program in no way implies an obligation on the part of Floyd College to award a given degree or a given Honors status. For official purposes a final, correct list of graduates will be retained in the office of the Registrar, Floyd College.

Academic Regalia

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable part of universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish students during the earliest days of these schools. Since there were few early universities and the Church—a large number of scholars and many of the faculty were clerics—the garb adopted by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set them apart, was the prototype for the academic garb used today. Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is long, pointed and open; the master's gown is similar but closed; and the doctor's gown is full length and shaped sleeves with the gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institution or the traditional color of the field of study. The bachelor's hood is three and a half, and the doctor's four. The color of the hood study can be determined from the facing on the hood:
- Arts—white; Science—gold/yellow; Nursing—apricot; Pharmacy—pink; Education—blue.
- The mace, a great and splendid staff, is actually a walking stick. Universities would not defend themselves with the sword or the mace, because they were gentle scholars who drew blood, but they could defend themselves with the mace, which has come to stand as a symbol of for two critical matters. First, it is a mace to seek the truth and to teach it. It also stands for the academic. The best described by two traditional Latin terms: magister's mace, monsterium, is included control of equipment, building and members and visitors—ensuring order and liberty. Under a defense of the liberty to do research, to study, to publish that the academy must protect and foster those freedoms.
- The Floyd College mace was designed by Mr. David Cook, Professor of Biology. The faculty selected Institutional Effectiveness, to have the honor of carrying the mace for the division.
- The academic banners being borne by the division are designed to reflect the disciplines of each division.

Academic Regalia

Stylized and distinctive academic regalia is a notable feature of all formal functions of colleges and universities throughout the world.

The use of a particular kind of costume to distinguish university scholars grew up in Europe during the earliest days of these schools. Since there was an intimate relationship between the early universities and the Church—a large number of scholars were prepared for the priesthood and many of the faculty were clergymen—the garb adopted for students was similar to that worn by the clergy, although differing enough in design to set the scholars apart from the churchmen.

Basically, there are three types of gowns, three styles of hoods and two kinds of cap tassels included in American academic costume. The bachelor's gown is without ornamentation and has long, pointed and open sleeves; the master's gown is similar, but has even longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom (there are openings about midway for the hands); the doctor's gown has full length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. The master's gown may be worn either open or closed.

All hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree and faced with the traditional color of the primary field of study. The bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four. The doctor's hood has wide set panels. The major field of study can be determined from the facing on the hood according to the following scheme:
- Arts—white; Science—gold/yellow; Nursing—apricot; Physical Education—green; Business Administration—Librarianship—lemon; Education—blue.

The mace, a great and splendid staff, is actually a club; it is a symbolic weapon. Medieval universities would not defend themselves with the sword. It was not considered appropriate for gentle scholars to draw blood, but they could defend, using a cudgel—and they did. The mace has come to stand as a symbol for two critical matters. First, it stands for the freedom of the academy to seek the truth and to teach it. It also stands for the authority of the academy. This authority is best described by two traditional Latin terms: magisterium and auctoritas. Under the first term, magisterium, is included control of equipment, building and grounds, as well as the behavior of members and visitors—ensuring order and liberty. Under the second term, auctoritas, is included a defense of the liberty to do research, to study, to publish and to learn. The mace makes the statement that the academy must protect and foster those things.

The Floyd College mace was designed by Mr. David Mott, Assistant Professor of Art and Dr. David Cook, Professor of Biology. The faculty selected Mr. Jerry Shelton, Director, Office of Institutional Effectiveness, to have the honor of carrying the mace in the procession.

The academic banners being borne by the division chairs in the procession are custom designed to reflect the disciplines of each division.

Our Commencement Speaker

Dr. Stephen R. Portch, Chancellor

Dr. Stephen R. Portch is the ninth Chancellor of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia and is responsible for the state's system of 34 public colleges and universities. The System is the fourth largest in the nation, with more than 205,000 students, 30,600 employees and a $2.5 billion budget.

Dr. Portch came to Georgia in 1994 after an eighteen-year career with the University of Wisconsin System, which he joined as an Assistant Professor of English in 1976. He later headed a college campus before becoming Chancellor of the University of Wisconsin Centers from 1986 to 1991, and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs from 1991 to 1994.

A native of Somerset, England, Chancellor Portch moved to the United States in 1974 after earning a bachelor's degree in English at the University of Reading. He holds Ph.D. and master's degrees from The Pennsylvania State University. He also is a widely published author and an accomplished equestrian.

Richard Wayne Trimble

A native of Cullman, Alabama, Richard W. Trimble came to Floyd College as Assistant Professor of Mathematics when the institution was in its infancy in 1971. He had previously taught at Auburn University where he had earned both Masters and Ph.D. degrees in Mathematics. His undergraduate degree was completed at Valparaiso University in Indiana.

In the past 26 years, Dr. Trimble has been an invaluable asset to Floyd College in a number of capacities. He has served as Director of Developmental Studies, Director of Special Studies, and Chairman of the Division of Developmental Studies, in addition to obtaining the rank of full Professor of Mathematics.

From July 1991 through November 1992, Dr. Trimble took the helm at Floyd College as Acting President, at the request of the Chancellor of the University System of Georgia. His sound leadership and strength made the transition between presidents seamless.

Because of his many contributions to Floyd College, but most importantly because of his reputation as a highly respected Professor, Dr. Richard W. Trimble has been selected to receive the Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award for 1997.
President’s Award
Mary Louise Burk Lever

Mary Louise Burk Lever is a native of Rome who has been a friend and supporter of Floyd College for many years. Ms. Lever is a graduate of Georgia College in Milledgeville with a double major in Biology and Home Economics. In addition, she has taken graduate courses in science and psychology at the University of Georgia. Ms. Lever was married to the late Dr. Joseph E. Lever and lived and taught school in Sandersville, Georgia before his death.

In 1979, Ms. Lever became a member of the Floyd College Foundation. She was appointed Chair of the Foundation in 1985 and served in that capacity until January 1997.

Ms. Lever is a national award-winning chef, having won more than 90 recipe contests, and often shares monetary proceeds from cooking contests with the Floyd College Foundation. Articles about her have appeared in numerous national and regional magazines and newspapers. In the past year, Ms. Lever was named one of the "96 Southerners to Watch" by Olympic Atlanta Magazine, published by the Atlanta Journal/Constitution.

Because of Ms. Lever’s leadership of the Floyd College Foundation and the thousands of hours she has spent planning and participating in successful fund-raising efforts on the college’s behalf, she is presented with the 1997 President’s Award.

Floyd College On Leading Edge of Education’s Future

In its twenty-six year history, Floyd College has served the Northwest Georgia community with a solid educational foundation for the first two years of college. In recent years, the college has become more innovative with its outreach and programming, offering more courses via nontraditional means to meet the needs of its diverse student population, and initiating programs which will serve as models for college across the country.

In 1994 the college opened Heritage Hall in downtown Rome to be more accessible to the working student. FCTV, a 24-hour cable television station went on the air that same year to offer classes that could be viewed multiple times a week for those with scheduling conflicts. An open-access channel, FCTV also offers outreach programs to the community such as news in Spanish, and job search programming. Another new project teaches American Sign Language to interpreters through total immersion in an abbreviated period of time. This program was initiated in 1996 and has been included as a "National Pattern of Academic Excellence" program by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia.

In the coming year, Floyd College will be a leader for the future of education as it focuses on innovation and technology in the classroom with the Information Technology Project (ITP).

A ground-breaking pilot program with national implications, the ITP proposes to change the way students learn by making them more participatory in their classes, increasing access to their instructors and classmates outside of class, and by providing access to a world of resources. All this will be accomplished by putting laptop computers in every student’s hands and providing services which open the lines of communication and ease administrative functions.

Not only does this project propose to help students retain what they learn, but it will also increase their marketability when they seek employment after college.

As Floyd College progresses towards the 21st century, it will continue to offer the best, most advanced educational foundation to its student body. Your support and comments are appreciated.

Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award
Jo Anne Starnes

Jo Anne Starnes, who had been teaching at Jacksonville State University, was hired as an English instructor when Floyd College first opened in temporary quarters in downtown Rome in 1970. Since then she has earned her Ph.D. in English from Georgia State University, been promoted to full professor, and now serves as Coordinator of English studies.

In her time at Floyd College Dr. Starnes has served on many faculty and college committees. She was chair of the Statutes and Faculty Affairs Committee for several years, chair of the Educational Programs Committee in the college’s first SACS self-study, and was a member of the President’s Blue Ribbon Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics. She is also a member of the Regents’ Academic Advisory Committee on English. She served for many years as Floyd College’s Regents’ Test Coordinator and was a faculty adviser for the Old Red Kimono fine arts magazine for approximately thirteen years. She has also served multiple terms as president of the Floyd College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Dr. Starnes has also been active in the international studies program, taking students on two trips to Western Europe, one to Greece, and one to Ireland. She also assisted with one of the course credit trips to Canada and has organized trips for students to New York City and the Georgia Shakespeare Festival. Dr. Starnes was selected to participate in two of the Regent’s International Faculty Development Seminars, traveling to South Africa in 1996 and India in 1997.

In recent years Dr. Starnes has embraced the technological changes at Floyd College. She was among the first four years ago to teach a course on FCTV and has also taught through GSAMS.

Dr. Starnes and her husband, Eddie, have two sons, one in Athens and one in Houston, Texas.

As she retires from Floyd College, she leaves behind an outstanding legacy of service and teaching, and many colleagues who will miss her wisdom and guidance. It is because of her outstanding legacy to Floyd College that her peers have elected her to receive the 1998 Wesley C. Walraven Faculty Award.

Floyd College On Leave of Education’s Leave of Education

In its twenty-six year history, Floyd College has served as a significant educational foundation for the first two years of college. In recent years, with the growth of its student population and initiating programs which will serve as models for other institutions, its educational offerings have been expanded.

In 1994 the college opened Heritage Hall in downtown Rome to house television station FCTV, a 24-hour cable television station that airs the college’s programming times a week for those with scheduling conflicts. An open-access computer lab is available.

Another new project teaches American Sign Language to its student population, and initiating programs which will serve as models for other institutions.

The 1997-98 academic year brought national attention to Floyd College for its groundbreaking program to change the way students learn. The program increased access to instructors and classmates outside of class, and provided students with laptop computers in every student’s hands.

Also this year, construction began on a new classroom building with four classrooms, an auditorium, and an art gallery. The Student Center is now completed. Both projects are expected to be completed by 1999.

A new Borgia County center has been approved by the Board of Education for college centers in Cartersville and at North Metro Technical Institute. The new center is expected to serve more than 1,500 students when it opens in 2002.

For the first time in the history of Floyd College, the academic calendar includes the Semester System in the fall of 1998, as mandated by the Board of Regents. College personnel have been working with students for the past two years.

As Floyd College progresses towards the 21st century, it will continue to build its educational foundation to its student body. Your support and commitment are critical to the success of the College and its students.

Floyd College On Leading Edge of Education’s Future

In its twenty-six year history, Floyd College has served the Northwest Georgia community with a solid educational foundation for the first two years of college. In recent years, the college has become more innovative with its outreach and programming, offering more courses via nontraditional means to meet the needs of its diverse student population, and initiating programs which will serve as models for colleges across the country.

In 1994 the college opened Heritage Hall in downtown Rome to be more accessible to the working student. FCTV, a 24-hour cable television station went on the air that same year to offer classes that could be viewed multiple times a week for those with scheduling conflicts. An open-access channel, FCTV is broadcast in Floyd and Polk Counties. Another new project teaches American Sign Language to interpreters through total immersion in an abbreviated period of time. This program was initiated in 1996 and has been included as a "National Pattern of Academic Excellence" program by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia.

The 1997-98 academic year brought national attention to Floyd College as the institution embarked on a ground-breaking program to change the way students learn. The project incorporated technology in the classroom, increased access to instructors and classmates outside of class, and provided access to a world of resources all by putting laptop computers in every student's hands.

Also this year, construction began on a new classroom building on the central campus. The building will house four classrooms, an auditorium, and an art gallery. The Student Center is also undergoing extensive expansion and renovation. Both projects are expected to be completed in early 1999.

A new Bartow County center has been approved by the Board of Regents, which when built will combine the college centers in Cartersville and at North Metro Technical Institute. Located convenient to I-75, the center is expected to serve more than 1,500 students when it opens in 2002.

For the first time in the history of Floyd College, the academic calendar will change from the Quarter System to the Semester System in the fall of 1998, as mandated by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. College personnel have been working with students for the past two years to assure that the transition is smooth one.

As Floyd College progresses towards the 21st century, it will continue to offer the best, most advanced educational foundation to its student body. Your support and comments are appreciated.
